Policy

All Indigenous education curriculum material will be developed and edited in cooperation and consultation with local First Nations organizations and communities, the school district, and the school district's Indigenous Education Council.

Guidelines/Principles:

1. Curricular materials should reflect local history and communities and be made available to both Indigenous and non-Indigenous students.
2. Indigenous curriculum will include a distinctions-based approach that recognizes the unique rights, priorities, and circumstances of local First Nations, Métis, and Inuit peoples. This approach respects the distinct identities and cultures of each group.
